MICHAEL BURKE

President

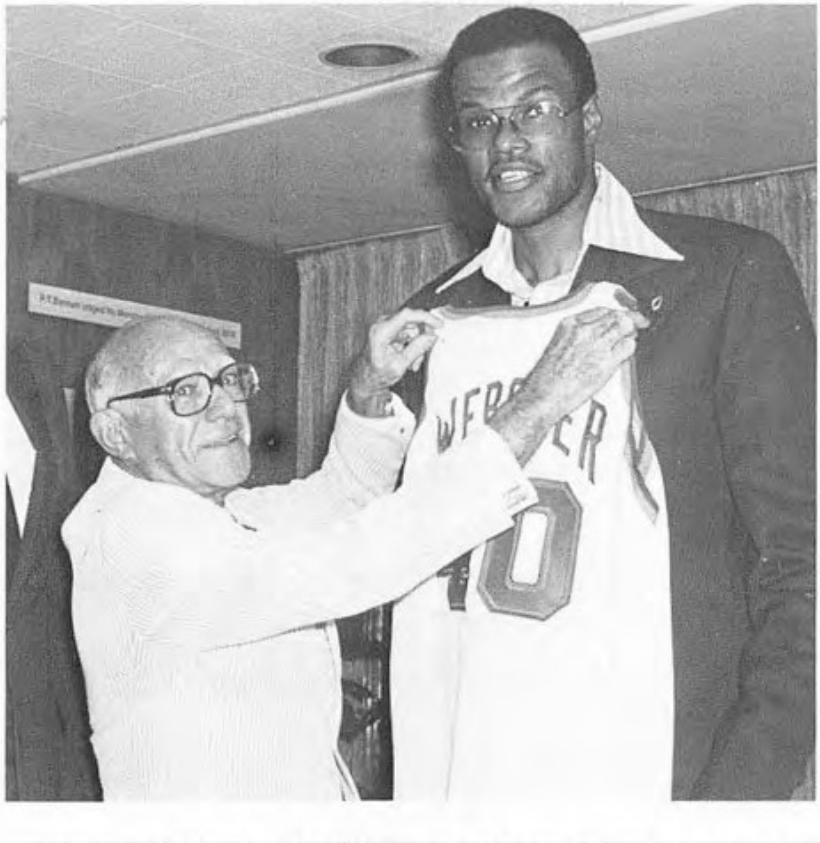
Michael Burke, President of Madison Square Garden Center, is the President of the New York Knickerbockers and Chairman of the New York Rangers. Prior to his association with the New York Knickerbockers, Mr. Burke was President and Chairman of the Board of the New York Yankees and remains a part owner of the Yankees. A former Penn football star, Mr. Burke was commissioned in the U.S. Navy during World War II and served with General "Wild Bill" Donovan's OSS. He was awarded the Silver Star for "gallantry in action" and the Navy Cross for "extraordinary heroism." In 1954, after having been a film writer in Hollywood, New York and Rome and Special Advisor to the U.S. High Commission for Germany, Mr. Burke became Executive Vice President and General Manager of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus. In September of 1956 he joined CBS, initially as an executive in the CBS Television Network and later President of CBS Europe. In 1962 he became Vice President of CBS Inc. and in 1966 became President of the New York Yankees.

EDWARD J. DONOVAN

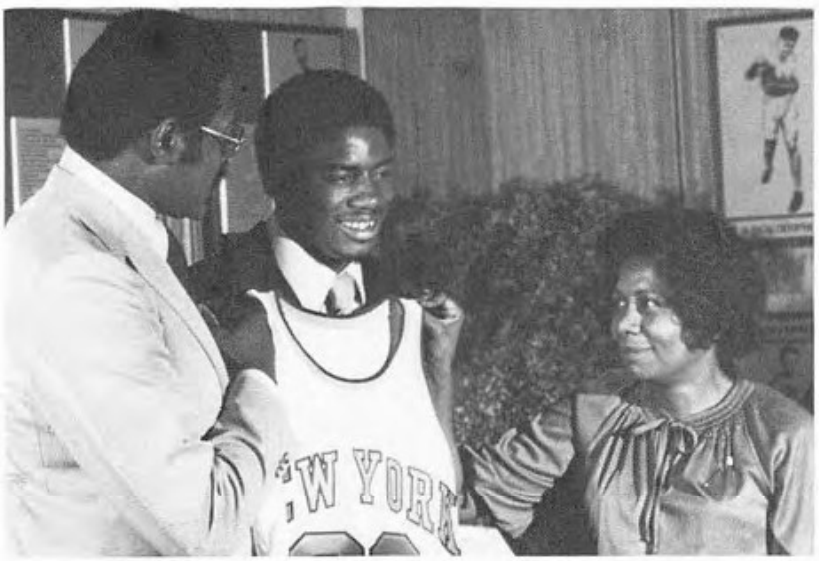
General Manager

Someone once said that Eddie Donovan had done more for the telephone than Alexander Graham Bell. National Basketball Association General Managers and associates expect a call from Eddie at any time because they know he is a shrewd, hard worker who keeps in touch with every development. He came to the Knicks in 1961 as the coaching replacement for Carl Braun after a successful reign at St. Bonaventure, where he gained national recognition with his aggressive offense and defense. He was named General Manager in 1964 and wasted no time building the team that was to win the Knicks' first championship in 1970, and repeat in 1973. His awareness of talent was reflected by a series of drafts and trades that brought the Knicks a title in the 24th year of their existence. In 1964, the Knicks drafted Bad News Barnes, Willis Reed, Butch Komives and Emette Bryant. In 1965, the draft brought Bill Bradley, Dave Stallworth and Dick Van Arsdale. The same season Donovan obtained Dick Barnett and used Barnes to get Walt Bellamy, who was to be packaged later with Komives in the critical deal for Dave DeBusschere in 1968. In 1966, Cazzie Russell was the first round draft choice and the next year it was Walt Frazier. Phil Jackson came in 1967. Donovan left the Knicks a number of weeks before his acquisitions won the 1970 title to establish the Buffalo franchise. He was voted "Executive of the Year" by the other General Managers four years ago. He turned the expansion Braves into a playoff team before returning to the Knicks when Red Holzman yielded the General Manager's job to concentrate on coaching in 1976.

New Knicks...



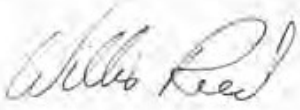
David A. (Sonny) Werblin, president of Madison Square Garden Corporation, with Marvin Webster.



A family affair . . . Coach Willis Reed, Mrs. Luddie Hicks and her son, Michael Ray Richardson.

Willis Reed

Coach



"Our aim is to make the playoffs," Willis Reed contended soon after he took over as head coach of the New York Knickerbockers last September. For the first time in three seasons, the Knicks did just that, finishing with a 43-39 record which was the best since the 1973-74 season—a mark bettered only eight times in the club's 32 seasons of professional basketball strife. When the Knicks eliminated the Cleveland Cavaliers in a two-game set, everything looked promising. But the Philadelphia 76ers proved too strong, becoming the first to blank the Knicks in a four-game series. Predictably, Willis offered no excuses. Throughout his brilliant pro career, even when seriously injured, he had never offered an alibi. Unquestionably the most respected player in the history of the Knicks, and certainly the greatest, he had captained and led the club to two World Championships in his playing days. His playing days ended with the conclusion of the 1973-74 season—one in which he was healthy for merely 19 appearances. On the occasion of the opening game in 1976-77, Madison Square Garden honored Willis in a formal ceremony during which his old No. 19 uniform number was retired. On March 9, 1977, he returned to the Knicks, having been named to succeed William (Red) Holzman, as coach. However, he did not assume the reins there and then. It was not until he greeted the rookies at the club's Monmouth College training camp during July of 1978 that he donned the coaching mantle. Willis, however, had seen more action in terms of playing time, than anyone in the club's history, having logged just over 23,000 minutes despite a series of injuries which hobbled him during his ten-year pro playing career. He also departed as the club's all-time scoring leader with his 12,183 points (average 18.7), and still ranks as the Knicks' all-time leading rebounder. Without doubt Reed is best remembered for his courage and determination, exhibited clearly in the seventh and final game of the championship series with the Los Angeles Lakers at Madison Square Garden on the night of May 8, 1970. That was the unforgettable night when Willis, only moments before the title game was to begin, limped onto the floor, amid a thunderous ovation from the 19,500 fans present, and provided the inspiration for an unprecedented Knick triumph. Again three years later, this time at the Forum in Los Angeles, and again disdaining the pain which kept him out of action from time to time, Reed led the club to a championship. In both of those memorable seasons, he emerged as the Most Valuable Player in the playoffs. In 1970 he had become the first player in league history to be named MVP in regular season, the All-Star game, and in the playoffs as well. Five times he had led the Knicks in scoring; six times in rebounding; four times in playing minutes. Born and raised in Louisiana, he had scored 2,235 points at Grambling College while leading the school to an NAIA championship. He was a terrific all-around athlete on the high school level where he played baseball and football while excelling in track in the the weight events. He also played in the Pan-American Games in Brazil.

Alfred Beard

Age 31, 6-3, 185 lbs.
Born: Hardinburg, Ky.
May 4, 1947
Home: Louisville, Ky.
College: Louisville
H.S.: Breckinridge City
Obtained: Waivers, 1975

LAST SEASON—Consistent and ever reliable in backcourt, Butch played the only way he knows how to play . . . "I know my role," he said . . . "Run more. Get the ball upcourt, hit the open man and put defensive pressure on my man." . . . When the season began, he agreed to play a utility role but with Jim Cleamons not fully ready, Willis Reed opted for experience . . . Butch wound up with 37 starting assignments . . . Averaged better than nine points and had 339 assists, only six fewer than when he led Golden State Warriors to 1975 championship . . . Scored career high 32 points against the New Jersey Nets in March at the Garden.

PROFESSIONALLY—No. 1 draft pick of Atlanta Hawks in 1969 . . . Selected by Cleveland in 1970 expansion draft and was one of original Cavaliers . . . Did not don Cleveland uniform until 1972 when he shed Army uniform . . . Stops along NBA road have been Cleveland twice, Seattle and Golden State before settling down to become Knick on Thanksgiving Day in 1975 via waiver route . . . Shot better than 50% in three of last four seasons. . . . Laughs now at the strange bounce that made him a target when sent to Seattle from Cleveland as a 1972-73 replacement for Lenny Wilkens, the most popular Sonic at the time. "That was before there was any professional football or baseball in Seattle, and people took their basketball awfully seriously," recalled Butch. "They'd come up to you in a shopping center and just tell you how badly they thought you played. One time, somebody threw mud on my car windshield." . . . Still doesn't understand that other strange bounce when shipped to Cleveland after the 1975 championship by Golden State for Dwight Davis and some draft choices. "Just 24 hours after we won, a radio reporter called me on the phone and said I was going to be traded," said Butch.

SELF-EVALUATION—"I'm a playmaker. I try to get everyone involved on offense . . . Although I don't shoot too much, I take pride in hitting the open jump shot . . . I've never been a troublemaker. I'm not very vocal. I just play my game and try to beat the other team . . . I didn't expect to be drafted out of college. After being around a year, I realized I could play NBA basketball."

COLLEGE—An All-America at Louisville . . . Hit 20 of 25 field goal attempts at Bradley Fieldhouse to snap mark held by Oscar Robert-PERSONAL—Thousands cheered when Butch's wife, Ruth Ann, called during a pre-season clinic to report birth of daughter, Samantha . . . The Beard's have two sons, Alfred III, 9, and Cory Alan, 6 . . . Double major in physical education and social work . . . Did post-graduate work at Louisville . . . Received nickname from an uncle while in infancy.

Greg Bunch

Age 22, 6-6, 190 lbs.
Born: San Bernardino, Calif
May 15, 1956
Home: San Bernardino, Calif.
College: Cal. State, Fullerton
H.S.: Pacific, San Bernardino
Drafted 2nd. Rd., 1978

Played basketball, and only basketball, from eighth grade on . . . When Knicks drafted him on second round (they had two picks), he became first player in Cal State's (Fullerton) history to be tabbed for NBA future . . . Team oriented, unselfish player with great quickness and jumping ability . . . Playing pro basketball was his childhood dream. . . . First to admit "I'm not a big scorer." . . . In rookie camp, Willis Reed "told me my role would be to go to the boards, play defense and hit the open shot" . . . Reed's early judgment based on what Greg showed immediately in training camp, was that Bunch was an impressive rookie . . . "Watch this kid," Willis advised right away. "He has good court sense. Lots of desire. He gives the team another dimension at forward. He is a small forward who can run and jump. He's playing like he wants someone's job. He plays excellent defense." . . . Greg was surprised that a basketball player from a small college went so high in the NBA draft. "I was elated that I was even chosen in the draft," he said. "I'm a realist, so I didn't really expect to be picked that high. I was happy because playing pro basketball has been a dream since childhood. My intent when I enrolled at Fullerton was to get an education through playing basketball. Now, hopefully, everything will come together with the Knicks." . . . The Knicks gambled and got Bunch, anyway, in the second round. They had the 32nd and 34th picks, the latter because of the deal that sent Tom McMillen to Atlanta. "We decided to take Rudd first and gamble that Cleveland wouldn't take Bunch," explained Reed. The Cavaliers took Harry Davis of Florida State and the Knicks got Greg.

SELF-EVALUATION—"I have quickness. I can jump. I play defense." . . . A lot of players base their performances on the number of points they score. I'm the first to admit that I'm not a big scorer, though I consider myself a good shooter. But I think my defense, rebounding, steals and overall play compensate when I score 10 or 12 points. In any game that I score 12 points, grab 10 rebounds and we win, it's gratifying. My role on the Knicks will be the same as I had in college. I'll be expected to go to the boards, get offensive rebounds, play defense and hit the open shot."

COLLEGE—Main cog in little-known Cal State, led club out of unheralded Pacific Coast Athletic Conference to become surprise team in 1978 NCAA Tournament . . . Titans scored upsets of New Mexico and San Francisco before losing heartbreaker to Arkansas . . . Titans retired his jersey after he paced scoring and rebounding for four successive seasons . . . All-Conference choice for last three seasons . . . Made Brigham Young All-Tournament team in company with Michael Ray Richardson of Montana, top Knick draft selection.

PERSONAL—A bachelor, he resides in San Bernardino, Calif., with mother, Marzaree, two brothers and two sisters . . . Criminal Justice major at college, he was raised in low income housing project where "A lot of my friends got into trouble with the police. I chose not to go that route. People thought I was crazy playing basketball in 100 degree heat but I used basketball as a tremendous release. It was, and is, my outlet. We had a recreation center in our area and I spent all my time there playing basketball instead of succumbing to propositions to go out and steal bicycles and other things. Basketball gave me something to do with my free time. It did a lot for me."

Luther Burden

Age 25, 6-2, 195 lbs.
Born: Haines City, Fla.
February 28, 1953
Home: Albany, N.Y.
College: Utah
H.S.: Schyler, Albany
Drafted, 2nd Rd., 1975

LAST SEASON—After averaging 10 points per game during the pre-season, Burden aggravated an injury to his left knee that kept him idle all season and required surgery during the off-season . . . Had torn cartilage removed . . . Played briefly in two regular season games before being placed on injured list. . . . Injury was sustained in pre-season game with the Nets in Washington. He went up to block shot by Dave Wohl and hyperextended the knee, resulting in eventual surgery. It was his third knee operation. He had two on the right knee in high school . . . "I tried to come back too soon," said Ticky after being reactivated for two games and then returning to the injured list. One day, anxious to get back into action, he went onto the court and began dunking the ball. A half hour later he was in pain . . . "It's frustrating to watch the other players on the court," he recalled as he watched the 1977-78 season slip by while sitting on the bench at home games and rooting. "I hate that part, but it's my job. You don't want anyone to think you're ducking out. I watched the games on television when the team was on the road. I rooted for the guys from my living room. Watching them on TV—that was my pleasure."

PROFESSIONALLY—Top scorer for Virginia Squires in 1975-76 . . . Ranked tenth among American Basketball Association scorers with 19.9 average . . . Was Squires' top draft pick in 1975 . . . Selected on second round by Knicks . . . Signed as free agent after Virginia franchise folded . . . Became Knick June 8, 1976 . . . Played 61 games in first New York season . . . Best effort was 21 points in 22 minutes against Boston Celtics, while subbing for an injured Walt Frazier.

SELF-EVALUATION—"I can score . . . I'm fair on defense . . . I handle the ball reasonably well and rebound well for my size . . . I'm a quick learner. . . . I haven't had much of a chance to prove myself in the NBA because of injuries. I know I can play when I'm healthy. My primary concern is to make the team. I always wanted to be a vital part of the Knickerbockers."

COLLEGE—Nation's fourth leading scorer with 28.7 average as Utah senior . . . Led all scorers in 1974 National Invitation Tournament with 118 points in four games . . . Scored 1,790 points in three seasons . . . A first team All-America, led U.S. in scoring in 1974 World Games in Puerto Rico

PERSONAL—One of five offsrpring of a migrant worker . . . Married, he and Audrey have three children . . . Son, Nahiam, is 8. Daughters are Tinone, 7, and Natrai, year and a half . . . Plans resumption of education in journalism . . . Nicknamed "Ticky" because of his soft shooting touch.

Jim Cleamons

Age 29, 6-4, 185 lbs.
Born: Lincolnton, N.C.
September 13, 1949
Home: Columbus, O.
College: Ohio State
H.S. Linden McKinley
Obtained: Free Agent, 1977

LAST SEASON—Knicks acquired another intelligent, unselfish player . . . "I knew this would be my toughest year when called upon to replace Walt Frazier," he confessed early in the campaign . . . "There was the matter of adjustment, my injuries and all . . . People haven't seen the real Jim Cleamons yet." . . . Dedicated to team play, he seldom committed error . . . A disciplined type, he was used sparingly until Nov. 11 against the 76ers at Philadelphia. . . . Then started 42 games . . . Had 15-game spurt during which he shot at 60% accuracy . . Collision with Ron Behagen caused deltoid muscle injury to left shoulder . . . Thereafter started just twice . . . Equalled 48% career high shooting average . . . "I'm proud of my career," he said . . . "I've been involved with championship teams at every level I've played . . . I never took losing lightly."

PROFESSIONALLY—Had been Cavaliers' "Take Charge Guy." . . . Led Cleveland to two Central Division titles . . . Was Cav's career assist leader with 1,549 in five seasons . . . was "prepared to build a career as a teacher" when fate intervened . . . was stunned to learn he had been drafted No. 1 by Los Angeles Lakers in 1971, fourth guard picked at time . . . Dealt to Cleveland for future draft choices, Aug. 31, 1972.

SELF-EVALUATION—"Ability to read and penetrate defense . . . I have court awareness . . . I can pass, run and shoot." As for his efforts, "I'm not the most gifted of athletes," he admits. "Some guys are just natural athletes. Not me. I have to work hard and by doing that, I know what I can accomplish. It only takes a little bit of work and concentration to play both ends of the court. So you see, I don't specialize in one thing." . . . Born in North Carolina but raised in Columbus, Jim says, "Hey, I consider myself very fortunate to be a professional basketball player. Basketball is a job I can enjoy. When you love what you do, you do your best."

COLLEGE—Most Valuable Player in Big Ten as senior at Ohio State . . . An Academic All-America . . . Led Buckeyes to 1967 league championship . . . Averaged 18.5 points in three seasons.

35

PERSONAL—Resident Columbus, Ohio . . . Only son of Jim and Mildred Cleamons . . . Has two sisters, Geneva and Sharon . . . "I enjoy being a bachelor. I'm basically a loner. I spend most of my time in my New York apartment, listening to music. I'm not disco-crazy—that's for teenie boppers."

Mike Glenn

Age 23, 6-3, 185 lbs.
Born: Rome, Ga.
September 10, 1955
Home: Cave Spring, Ga.
College: So. Illinois
H.S.: Coosa, Rome, Ga.
Obtained: Free agent, 1978

LAST SEASON—All Mike Glenn cares to remember about the 1977-78 season was that he played on last team in Buffalo . . . Showed the Knicks in two short appearances against them that he had major league shooting touch far above the average . . . "Glenn may be one of the best shooters in the league," suggested Eddie Donovan. "He always has shot better than fifty percent." . . . Another Glenn quality that attracted the Knicks was that he was from Southern Illinois, the school that sent Walt Frazier to New York . . . Glenn learned quickly he had to live with that association, which he liked because Clyde had been his basketball hero and inspiration . . . "In my first game, it was against Michigan, I scored 15 and I think I was 7-for-11," recalls Mike. "They said this might be the best guard to come along since Walt Frazier." . . . He doesn't mind being compared to Frazier but hopes people judge him for himself . . . "He is not only a fine player but he is intelligent, an "A" student, and a sensitive young man," explained Donovan . . . Glenn is skilled in sign language, "I learned how to sign when I was growing up," he says. "My father teaches math at a Georgia school for the deaf. He used to teach basketball and I would go to practice on Holidays and after school. I guess I was around four or five. I have a lot of deaf friends now. Growing up watching people struggle makes you more sensitive." . . . He was drafted on the second round by Chicago but never played a 1977-78 game for the Bulls or even signed a contract because of a car accident in which he fractured the third cervical verterbra in his neck . . . He was heading towards Southern Illinois for a workout on Aug. 23, 1977 when a trailer truck stopped short. He swerved around it but lost control and wound up getting hit by a car coming in the other direction. He emerged with "a crick in my neck" that turned out to be a fracture. It kept him in a body-neck brace for six weeks.

PROFESSIONALLY—Reported to Chicago in November after accident with no room on the roster . . . Passed physical but Bulls put him on injured reserve list . . . Obtained release and signed one-year contract with Buffalo, playing first game in Phoenix on Dec. 14, 1977 . . . Moved into the starting lineup alongside Randy Smith when Chuck Williams got hurt and shot 10-for-16 in 41 minutes for career-high 25 points . . . Started 14 games before Williams returned and shot well over .500. Exercised right as free agent at end of season and signed with Knicks after being Buffalo's top percentage shooter.

SELF-EVALUATION—"The Knicks needed a shooting guard and I'm a shooting guard . . . I try to play the game the way Walt Frazier played it—nice and relaxed . . . I picked the Knicks to sign with because they had mostly playmakers and not many shooting guards."

COLLEGE—Academic All-America at Southern Illinois . . . Majored in mathematics . . . Considered one of best shooting guards in country during four years with Salukis . . . Fine touch led to 57 percent average for college career . . . He never dipped under 54 percent . . . A good foul shooter who at one time hit 44 in a row for Southern Illinois.

PERSONAL—Single. Sister Theresa teaches math at Tuskegee Institute and brother Charles is a carpenter's aid . . . Began playing basketball at 11 . . . Played basketball and baseball in high school . . . Spends free time reading. Likes to dance.

Glen Gondrezick

Age 23, 6-6, 218 lbs.
Born: Boulder, Colo.
August 30, 1955
Home: Boulder, Colo.
College: Nevada-Las Vegas
H.S.: Boulder, Colo.
Drafted, 2nd Rd., 1977

LAST SEASON—People surged to their feet screaming "Go, Go, Gondo." . . . World War II Pacific Veterans would have called him a "Kamikaze." . . . Glen has never played an entire game on his feet . . . He has a penchant for aggressiveness; diving, scrambling, scratching for loose balls—even slamming into the stands . . . Earned more floor burns than a wrestler . . . Became a Garden hero with sheer guts . . . "I liked his spirit," Coach Reed said when the club drafted Gondo on the second round. "I'd seen him play in college and I was impressed with him right away. He was the kind of kid who MADE things happen." One of the most exciting players the Knicks have ever had and certainly one of the few who willingly gives up his body for the ball . . . With a mere 4.8 scoring average in his rookie season, Gondo, nonetheless, has found himself on court near the finish of many crucial games . . . Mainly he was expected to bolster the defense, crash the boards . . . It was a role he seemed to relish . . . "Mainly last season I was matched up against veterans. I think they looked at me as a rookie and thought I was supposed to be intimidated. Like in Philadelphia I took the charge on Doug Collins. He didn't like that, but I never have and never will change my style just because it bothers somebody else." . . . In one game against the Seattle Supersonics, he helped save a game the Knicks seemed destined to blow . . . Gondo visited the front row customers to save a pass. On a defensive switch he picked up Gus Williams and forced a poor shot. Then he stole a pass and went on to can a jumper which tied the score with 28 seconds left. Finally he converted two free throws to put the game on ice for the Knicks.

SELF-EVALUATION—"Defense and running are my strong points. My role is to play good defense and move the ball. The only way I know how to play is to hustle . . . I work hard because I have this need to accomplish." He posted a sign above his locker. It read: "When you struggle more, you work harder." . . . As Gondo sees it, "When most people are forced to struggle, they quit."

Glen Gondrezick

COLLEGE—Started every game, either at guard or forward, for three full seasons at Nevada-Las Vegas . . . Caused New Mexico Coach Norm Ellenberger to exclaim: "Somebody better give that kid a saliva test. He can't be for real." . . . Had career high 92 assists in 1975-76. . . . Led Rebels' record-setting 164-111 victory over Hawaii with 30 points, 11 rebounds and his college peak of 30 points.

PERSONAL—Wife, Merry, a nursing student at Pace University . . . Like Coach Reed, Gondo is an avid outdoorsman . . . One of 13 offspring of George and Eunice Gondrezick . . . All six brothers have same initials: "G.G." . . . Gary, Greg, Gordon, George Jr., Grant and Gale. Last summer he took part in all the Knicks-Manufacturers Trust clinics for met area youngsters. . . . It meant that once a week he commuted between Colorado and New York . . . The money he earned scarcely paid his round trip expenses. "I would have done it for nothing" he said.

Spencer Haywood

Age 29, 6-8, 225 lbs.
Born: Silver City, Miss.
April 22, 1949
Home: New York City
College: Detroit
H.S.: Pershing, Detroit
Purchased from Seattle, 1975

LAST SEASON—On or about Dec. 9, 1976, Eddie Donovan decided to call Spencer Haywood, just obtained from Seattle by the Knicks . . . "Hi, this is Eddie Donovan and we are happy to have you in New York," announced the general manager, who had just returned to the Knicks after six years in Buffalo . . . The man at the other end in Seattle replied: "How come you took me second in Buffalo?" . . . Seattle already had laid NBA claim to Haywood and influenced him to leave the ABA, but Donovan, not willing to waste a first pick, gambled and picked him second in case the league ruled the Sonics out of order . . . Spencer reminded Eddie of the incident because Haywood is a man who never forgets . . . Neither do New York fans who remember Spencer as a phenomenal 19-year-old schoolboy, the youngest on an 1968 Olympic team that beat the Knicks in a pre-season Garden game . . . A year later Spencer was the youngest player in pro basketball when he signed with the Denver Rockets and was named Rookie of the Year and MVP . . . Last season was a season Haywood might prefer to forget because of a damaged leg that had him in and out of the lineup and affected his consistency.
PROFESSIONALLY—"I'm the guy the coach always has tried to change because I could play three positions: center, power forward, small forward," says Spencer . . . Since Haywood has performed for eight coaches in ten seasons, dating back to his rookie ABA days, he has felt at times as though he were playing in a revolving door . . . Spencer thinks he is ready to stabilize things in his second season under Willis Reed.
SELF-EVALUATION—"I have leadership capabilities. I was the youngest team captain while I was playing at Seattle." . . . "I enjoy the whole idea of being myself. I like the idea of expressing myself. I like to speak what's on my mind. My problems might be that people expect me to be a defensive specialist, which I'm not. I have to be relaxed. My offense gets tight when I get tight."
COLLEGE—Left Detroit University after his sophomore season . . . Was a star at Pershing High School in Detroit before he flirted with junior college offers but wound up at the home University. Spencer might be the only basketball player in college history who caused a game to be postponed because of a smashed backboard . . . He ripped the rim from its roots and shattered the glass backboard with a slam-dunk that ended game with 6½ minutes to go. PERSONAL—Spencer, a bachelor at 28, finally met and married a woman who made last season a happy one despite his nagging injuries . . . Imin, a model, gave birth to a daughter named Zulekha, which means precious.

Toby Knight

Age 22, 6-9, 210 lbs.
Born: Bronx, New York
May 3, 1955
Home: Baldwin, L.I.
College: Notre Dame
H.S.: Port Jefferson, N.Y.
Drafted, 2nd. Rd., 1977

LAST SEASON—Not too many third round draft picks make it into the pros, but Toby not only made it, but made it big. . . . Was the most consistent of the three Knick rookies . . . Coaches are not supposed to have favorite players, but Willis Reed left little doubt of his special affection for Toby. . . . Willis spent long hours working one-on-one with Toby. When Reed talks to, or about Knight, it's often with a father's image . . . Confronted with the fact, Reed smiled and said, "Maybe it's because he's a lefthanded shooter, the way I was." . . . Knight and his fellow rookies nicknamed themselves the "Saps." . . . "We took the name from the Kojak show," said Knight. "There was a cop there named Saperstein, and he was kind of a go-for, a cop who always messed." . . . Knight, like Bill Bradley and Jim McMillian, appears to have been bred for the Knicks. . . . He is an intelligent player. . . . Has knack for getting good court position and going to the boards . . . Best night was against Chicago Bulls when he made his first 10 shots and missed the 11th, scoring 22 points. . . . "I scouted Toby," said Reed, "And I figured he'd be a better pro than college player. He can put the ball in and goes to the basket well." . . . Toby was the 36th pick on the second round of the NBA draft . . . That "surprised" Willis . . . "I didn't think he would be available when we picked at that point."

SELF-EVALUATION—"The best part of my game is defense and running. I am very satisfied with my role here. I'm a rebounder and I leave the scoring to people such as McAdoo and Haywood—that's their thing and I enjoy watching them. There's a lot of responsibility, and a lot of pressure, to win in the pros. There was pressure at Notre Dame but it was more social in nature. Your friends want you to win but playing at a big school helps you to know what people want."

COLLEGE—Attended Notre Dame "to get a good education," and was accepted for post-graduate school at Syracuse University. . . . Possibly the least flashy member of the Irish squad, he nonetheless prompted one pro scout to say, before the college draft, "Put this name down, Toby Knight." . . . He averaged only 9.4 points in college career but 15.2 norm as senior indicated pro potential. Toby entered college without thinking about making the NBA some day . . . "I didn't follow the league and had no heroes." . . . A very practical young man, he observed, of his decision to matriculate at South Bend: "The publicity there would be good and they'd be on the tube so my my family would get to see me."

PERSONAL—Toby married little more than a year ago . . . Wife, Roberta, shares his affection for pet Doberman named "Terror." . . . Toby hopes to find his way into the communications field as a director or producer.

Bob McAdoo

Age 27, 6-10, 215 lbs.
Born: Greensboro, N.C.
September 25, 1951
Home: Ramsey, N.J.
College: North Carolina
H.S.: Ben L. Smith
Obtained: By trade, 1976

LAST SEASON—To describe any NBA season in which McAdoo has been involved is to recall this statement by Paul Silas: "There's no way I can guard him . . . He's 6-10 and jumps out of the sky . . . I bump him and he still shoots over me." . . . McAdoo started the league as a forward and became a pro center through circumstances, though an All-America center at North Carolina University . . . Was playing forward for Buffalo along with Jim McMillian until forced to center when Bob Kauffman got hurt. . . . The rest is shooting history . . . Eddie Donovan played a major role in McAdoo's destiny . . . Big Mac was reportedly signed and all but delivered to the Virginia Squires of the ABA when Donovan, then vice-president-general manager of the Braves, surprised many by drafting and signing him for the 1972-73 season. . . . Doing his homework, Donovan discovered McAdoo not only hadn't signed with ABA but also was under 21, so it meant nothing if he had signed. . . . McAdoo, a 50.4 career shooter, was Rookie of Year and on his way to three straight scoring titles, to match Wilt Chamberlain and Neil Johnston.

PROFESSIONALLY—In seven seasons has become the acknowledged best big-man shooter in the league, and maybe in history . . . "Everytime I shoot, I think the shot is going in," says Big Mac, whose uncanny touch from the corners and outside has produced a 27.8 career average despite the range of his shots . . . His 30.24 shooting record is surpassed only by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 30.34 in the NBA book . . . MVP in 1974-75 when he averaged 34.5.

SELF-EVALUATION—"I don't worry about being short or long with my shot. My touch is soft enough to get a lot of rim action, front and back, so I concentrate on the sides. I have scoring and rebounding ability and I like the fast tempo—the running game."

COLLEGE—First attended Vincennes Junior College in Indiana and led team to the national championship . . . Transferred to University of North Carolina but left after one season with a year eligibility remaining to enter NBA draft under the hardship rule . . . Helped Tar Heels to a 29-5 season and teamed with Bobby Jones to reach NCAA semi-finals only to be beaten by Florida State.

PERSONAL—Married in his rookie season at Buffalo . . . Former

Also two Afghan hounds whom Big Mac entertains by playing saxophone he used while performing three years with Smith High Marching Band . . . McAdoo set a 6-7⅜ state prep high jump record, beating Bobby Jones.

Jim McMillian

Age 30, 6-5, 215 lbs.
Born: Raeford, N.C.
March 11, 1948
Home: White Plains, N.Y.
College: Columbia
H.S.: Jefferson, Bklyn.
Obtained: By purchase, 1977

LAST SEASON—Bill Sharman, currently the Los Angeles Lakers' general manager, but once McMillian's coach, offered this description of McMillian: "Jim is a real smart player. He's not the flashy type, but one who gets the job done. He's a team player and sometimes you have to check the stat sheet to see what he's done. Sometimes you don't notice him and might even think he had a bad night ." . . . Sharman's analysis best sizes up Jim's college and pro career. . . . His philosophy has always been "I would rather be smart than talented. You can make up a lot by thinking." When Red Auerbach first learned that Buffalo had traded McMillian to the Knicks, the President and general manager of the Boston Celtics said: "Buffalo made a big mistake. He's a ballplayer's ballplayer. He knows what he is doing out there. He's a terrific shooter and he can rebound and play defense. What more can you ask of a guy?" . . . At his best when the team is playing intelligent basketball and gets him involved in offense. That happened last season he was credited with 10 assists against New Orleans Jazz. . . . Scored 24 points twice and 22 four other times.

PROFESSIONALLY—Top draft choice of Los Angeles Lakers. . . . Member of the 1971-72 Laker team that won the NBA championship and recorded a 33 game winning streak, a league mark. . . . Traded to the Buffalo Braves after Wilt Chamberlain's retirement . . . Was the Braves' captain. . . . Shot .536 during 1975-76 season, third best in the league.

SELF-EVALUATION—"I work best within the framework of a team offense, not on my own. I don't do anything spectacular. When I'm moving and I get the ball, I know I'm going to do well. If we go one-on-one, then you have to take me out."

COLLEGE—Led Columbia University to ECAC Holiday Festival championship and emerged as tournament high scorer with 89 points while winning Most Valuable Player laurels as well . . . Twice won All-America acclaim . . . While with Lions, team enjoyed its most productive seasons.

Earl Monroe

Age 34, 6-3½, 190 lbs.
Born: Philadelphia Pa.
November 21, 1944
Home: New York City
College: Winston-Salem
H.S.: John Bartram, Phila.
Obtained: By trade, 1972

LAST SEASON—As ever, Earl the Pearl was something quite apart from the ordinary player . . . As far from the ordinary player as his given name is from the record books . . . Vernon Earl Monroe . . . The rocking, rolling, bobbing, spinning, double-pumping Houdini of Basketball . . . The unexpected is expected of Earl . . . "The thing is, I don't know what I'm going to do with the ball." . . . Magic? It has always been his bag, yet he says simply, "The move is the thing . . . I'm just trying to let people know I'm still on the scene." . . . He has never ceased being a joy to watch . . . He and Phil Jackson were all that remained of the Knick champions of 1972-73 to help make former teammate Willis Reed's coaching debut a smashing success at the Garden . . . With less playing time than he had in any of six previous seasons in New York, The Pearl managed to finish second in team scoring and his .495 shooting percentage was the second best of his celebrated career . . . He now ranks 20th among the all-time NBA scorers with 16,289 points . . . Only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Elvin Hayes, Dave Bing and Gail Goodrich were among last season's active players claiming more point production.

PROFESSIONALLY—He was top draft choice of Baltimore's Bullets in 1967 and won Rookie-of-the-Year honors . . . He was an All-Star in 1969, when he was NBA's second leading scorer (25.8 ppg), 1971, 1975 and 1977 . . . Leading scorer when Bullets reached 1971 championship round and helped Knicks win title in 1973.

SELF-EVALUATION—"Ever see actors on the set? They yell and scream until someone hollers 'Roll 'em!" Then they go into their act. Well, for two hours during a game, that's what I do."

COLLEGE—Averaged 42 points per game to put Winston-Salem on the basketball map . . . Most crushing disappointment came in Pan-American team trials when, after leading in scoring and playmaking, he was not picked for the team.

PERSONAL—For past six years worked nights in a West Side studio as record producer, "talking" the tempo . . . "The entertainment field is a natural for me. I've always had a flair for acting. But the record business affords me more opportunities" . . . Has home in Oakland, N.J., and a townhouse in Manhattan.

Michael Richardson

Age 23, 6-5, 189 lbs.
Born: Lubbock, Tex.
April 11, 1955
Home: Denver, Colo.
College: Montana
H.S.: Manual, Denver
Drafted, 1st. Rd., 1978

Was fourth player selected in 1978 when Knicks named him their top choice . . . In so doing, Knicks evoked flurry of surprise . . . Early selection did not surprise Marty Blake, who conducts scouting service for NBA . . . "Super pick. Super Kid," responded Blake . . . And from Red Auerbach: "If the Knicks had not picked Richardson, I would have. I like the way this kid plays," said the lone survivor of all 32 league years . . . Knick GM Eddie Donovan labels Michael Ray "A quick and true guard. We feel we're on the right track." . . . Willis Reed watched films of college performances at Aloha Classic, Honolulu, "maybe 15 or 16 times. He has a lot of the qualities that Walt Frazier had. He's got the size, quickness, passing ability and defensive skills." . . . Misfortune dogged the rookie in training, however . . . Playing in the club's first pre-season game in Nova Scotia, he fractured the navicular bone in his right ankle and was lost for several weeks.

SELF-EVALUATION—"I've heard that some people think I can be another (Walt) Frazier. I don't know. It's not something I can do anything about. All I can do is be Michael Ray Richardson. If that puts me on a level with Frazier that'll be great. I feel I can play NBA ball, whether the Knicks want me as a big guard or small forward. I'm not afraid to play up front."

COLLEGE—A team leader by performance, experience and attitude, he played extensively at both guard and forward . . . Rebounded big at both positions at Montana where he was all-time leading scorer through four seasons . . . First team All-Big Sky Conference for three years . . . His 40 points in final game of 1975-76 campaign against rival Montana State established record at UM Fieldhouse . . . As freshman he was varsity center on Grizzly team which lost only one game in conference and which carried title-bound UCLA to wild finish before bowing by only three points . . . Chose Montana "to make a name for myself." . . . Coach Jim Brandenberg stamped him "A most complete player, excellent passer and rebounder who plays tough defense. But most importantly, he's a team player who puts team performance ahead of individual achievement. A winner in every sense of the word."

PERSONAL—Married, he and wife Rene have one child, a daughter named Tosha . . . Purchased a home in East Denver for his mother, Mrs. Luddie Hicks . . . Mom raised six other children: Billy, Harold, Dorothy, Ienda, Sherry and Troy . . . Overshadowed at Denver's Manual High School by Phil Taylor, who went on to Arizona . . . Taylor was drafted on 10th round by hometown Denver Nuggets . . . "When we played in high school together, everyone thought Phil would be a superstar. Now he's got to struggle," said Michael.

John Rudd

Age 23, 6-7, 230 lbs.
Born: DeRidder, La.
August 7, 1955
Home: Lake Charles, La.
College: McNeese State
H.S.: DeRidder, La.
Drafted, 2nd Rd., 1978

During rookie camp, Rudd said, "I'm not afraid to push people around. I'm not afraid to get hit. That's the way I've always played this game and I'm not going to stop now." . . . Nicknamed "The Bull" in college, John is a hustling, bruising discovery on the order of Glen Gondrezick . . . Rebounding is his forte and his reputation is as a strong, physical player who hounds the ball and works hard under the basket, a Knick weakness last season . . . An excerpt from a Lake Charles, La., newspaper read: "Rudd will be remembered for diving over press tables, or on to cement floors chasing errant basketballs." . . . Always the one who steps into every on-court brawl, not to fight, but rather to break them up . . . Strong believer that too many games are lost because tempers have flared . . . Comes from family of football players. His father John played defensive tackle and offensive guard at Louisiana College and had tryout around 1950 with the New York Giants. Brother Jim tore up a knee playing for McNeese State and had to quit . . . Rudd played football in high school and concentrated on basketball in college but the Dallas Cowboys and Houston Oilers tried to sign him as a free agent after the 1978 draft . . . "Dallas had been in touch with me ever since I was a freshman," he explained. "They wanted me as a tight end. I got a pretty high mark on their computer test. On a scale of 100, I got around 89. They told me Tony Dorsett got a 93, so my mark was pretty good." . . . Houston was ready to send in Dan Pastorini to throw Rudd some passes. "They talked about me working with weights so I could get bigger," said Rudd. "They talked to me about playing offense or defense." . . . Rudd turned down both pro football offers. "I told them I wanted to try pro basketball first," he recalled. "I told them if things didn't work out, I'd be back to them." They worked out when the Knicks drafted him because of size, strength, attitude and playing qualities.

COLLEGE—Averaged 14.9 points last season, best offensive showing of his career . . . Points make little impression on him . . . His more impressionable statistics are his rebounding numbers . . . Was among the nation's top rebounders in each of his four seasons, including a finish among the top five as a sophomore . . . Compiled a career school record of 1,181 rebounds . . . "Rebounding is nothing more than desire," says Rudd. "It means just positioning yourself correctly and often outsmarting your man."

SELF-EVALUATION—"Basketball is a game that has other aspects to it. There is more than just shooting the ball. There is hustle and defense. What I do best is play defense and go to the boards. Concentration is another of my stronger points."

PERSONAL—Began as pre-med student . . . Switched to physical education . . . Now interested in pursuing law career . . . Married three years ago to high school sweetheart, Alison Smith. "She was a cheerleader and she was always around where I was," said Rudd. She is a teacher who wants to get into social work . . . They have no children but own two Basset Hounds: "Daisy May and Li'l Abner" . . . Live in a high-rise New York apartment on 25th floor, causing serious adjustment. "We got only one elevator in our whole town," said DeRidder, La.'s most famous man . . . Broke his jaw in college game but played remaining 20 minutes. Jaw was wired for 4½ weeks but he played, anyway.

Marvin Webster

Age 26, 7-1, 225 lbs.
Born: Baltimore, Md.
April 13, 1952
Home: Mamaroneck, N.Y.
College: Morgan State
H.S.: Edmondson, Balt.
Obtained: Free agent, 1978

LAST SEASON—Once upon a time there was an ABA team called the Utah Stars . . . Once upon a time the Stars drafted a player on the second round after a little-publicized sophomore college season because they considered him a "sleeper" . . . Once upon a time that pro team listed that player in its brochure as "Marvin Webster, Oregon State." . . . The Stars were half right . . . Webster was from Morgan State but he did turn out to be a "sleeper" many years later . . . Blossomed into a potential star last season with Seattle after an attack of hepatitis stunted his growth . . . Drafted by the Denver Nuggets, leading to the trade that almost won the NBA title for the Sonics . . . Few people predicted the sudden rise to the top by "The Human Eraser" in his third season as a pro . . . He played in only 30 games as a rookie because of the liver ailment that led to his five-year contract being adjusted by Denver under charges it had signed damaged goods . . . Was traded to Seattle after the 1976-77 season with Paul Silas and Willie Wise for Tom Burleson, Bob Wilkerson and a draft choice . . . Transformed Seattle into a 47-35 team that carried the Washington Bullets to seven games in the championship series.

PROFESSIONALLY—Webster played behind Dan Issel at center in his rookie season at Denver, which won the divisional ABA crown . . . He played every game for the Sonics last season . . . Ironically, he didn't make the All-Star game because his development and recognition came later in the season . . . "If you are not producing," he said he learned, "you're gonna be shipped out. It's not a game where you can have fun unless you're with the right team . . . Great teams can play together and have fun."

SELF-EVALUATION—"My assets include giving 100 percent. Trying to get everyone involved, working together. I'm a good defensive player. Can block shots and rebound. I can take the pressure. I like to use my speed to hustle around people and get the job done."

COLLEGE—Attended Edmondson High School in Baltimore and like all basketball players in that area wanted to play at the University of Maryland but became a victim of circumstances . . . Lefty Dreisell had Tom McMillen and Len Elmore so advised Marvin to mature at a junior college for two years and come back . . . Then went to Morgan State and added a fat reputation and a bankroll three years out of college . . . Attracted national attention with such performances as 39 points and 32 rebounds in one game, 38 points and 29 sophomore season.

AT HOME—Lives with his wife Maderia in a Mamaroneck apartment . . . A son, Marvin Nathaniel Webster II, was born at Greensboro, N.C., on Sept. 26 while Dad was in training with the Knicks at Monmouth College . . . Their first child weighed in at six pounds, one ounce . . . Nobody in his family is tall. His father, the Rev. Edmund Webster, founder of the Gallilee Baptist Church in Baltimore, is 5-9, and his mother is 5-6 . . . His four sisters and two brothers are not exceptionally sized.

Ray Williams

Age 24, 6-3, 190 lbs.
Born: Mt. Vernon, N.Y.
October 14, 1954
Home: Mt. Vernon, N.Y.
College: Minnesota
H.S. Mt. Vernon, N.Y.
Drafted, 1st Rd., 1977

LAST SEASON—The saying goes that "the only thing you can't teach is experience." . . . That was Ray's only shortcoming during his rookie season . . . Was brilliant and looked flashy at times . . . Tended to commit many turnovers . . . Became fifth Knick rookie to lead team in assists, joining Dick McGuire, Richie Guerin, Howie Komives and Walt Frazier . . . His 363 assists was chiefly responsible for Knicks' sharing NBA record with Phoenix Suns in that department, each totalling 2,338 for season . . . Excelled in playoffs . . . Had 16 points and 10 assists when Knicks eliminated the Cleveland Cavaliers in two straight games . . . Had two 24-point games against Philadelphia 76ers in Eastern Conference semi-finals . . . Phil Jackson, a Knick last season but now with New Jersey Nets, commented on Ray's ability, saying "He can be tremendous. He has as much physical talent or more than I've ever seen a guard have in this league." . . . The effects of a minor operation on his knee slowed Ray in training camp. "It's an old injury which he reaggravated," reported trainer Mike Saunders "A piece of bone and cartilage broke loose and was floating in there. Dr. Jeffrey Minkoff removed it. As soon as the swelling subsides, he'll be able to play." . . . In addition to his finesse as a passer, Williams is a phenomenal leaper for his size and often slam-dunks a shot "I've never done anything special to develop my leaping," he says. "I just run up steps a lot and jump rope but I don't fool with weights."

SELF-EVALUATION—"I'm gonna embarrass plenty of people this year—that's the bottom line . . . I'm a good ball handler . . . I can penetrate and play defense. I've patterned my game, to a certain extent, on my passing. The buildup to a great assist involves terrific intensity on my part, and if I do it well there is a good response from the fans. That is enough for me."

COLLEGE—Led Minnesota to a 24-3 season, best mark ever for Gophers . . . Set playing record with 166 assists . . . Made All-Big Ten . . . Played alongside Mychal Thompson, whom the Portland TrailBlazers made the top pick in the 1978 NBA draft.

Ray Williams

PERSONAL—Father died when he was six years old . . . Raised by mother, Roseanna . . . One of eight children, including brother Gus who began pro career with Golden State Warriors; then signed as free agent last season to help lead Seattle SuperSonics into NBA's championship round . . . A native of Mt. Vernon, he spent many nights going to the Garden to see Walt Frazier, Dave DeBusschere and Willis Reed play—and he didn't always bother to bring a ticket with him . . . "I'd come to the Garden and look for an old ticket stub," he recalls. "I'd pick one up and the ticket guys would just tear it. They'd never look too closely. Then I'd zoom up the elevator. I didn't have a seat, so I just walked around. If someone asked for my ticket, I'd just say I lost it."

BOB HOPKINS

Assistant Coach

On the morning that the Knicks opened their annual Rookie Camp at Monmouth College (last July 24), Bob Hopkins was named, along with Dick Taylor, to the coaching staff as assistants to Willis Reed. Just a year earlier, Hoppy had succeeded Bill Russell as head skipper with the Seattle SuperSonics. But he had fallen victim to that club's early-season tailspin ("We simply can't afford to get off to a poor start," he said when he was named head coach) and his four-year association with the Sonics' coaching staff came to an abrupt end. He had served three years as Russell's assistant. Basketball, for Hopkins, really began at Grambling College where he proved to be a standout player. Oddly, however, he had won a baseball scolarship to Grambling after starring at Jonesboro, La., High School. His basketball performances at Grambling were enough to convince the Syracuse Nationals that he had the talent to play in the pro ranks and he was drafted, on the fourth round, in 1956. Hoppy played four seasons at Syracuse but in the 1960-61 campaign he suffered a severe knee injury which still causes him discomfort. So in 1963 he took his first coaching job at Prairie View College in Texas and a year later opted to return to school, attending Sam Houston State where he received his Masters degree in Physical Education. Then, in 1966, he accepted the coaching assignment at Alcorn State in Mississippi, a position he held for three seasons before moving on to Xavier in New Orleans where he skippered for five seasons, landing three national tournament berths for his teams.

DICK TAYLOR

Assistant Coach

When Willis Reed was the captain of the New York Knickerbockers, he conducted, for many years, an All-Star camp for basketball-minded youngsters. His staff included, among others, one Dick Taylor. So it came as no great surprise that Willis should select, as an assistant, a man with whom he had previously worked. Dick emerged from high school at Youngstown, N.Y., to become an outstanding student-athlete at Syracuse University. He won the Lew Carr Trophy (MVP) in 1963 and was a starting outfielder on the Syracuse 1961 college World Series baseball team. The outstanding senior majoring in Physical Education at Syracuse in 1963, Dick pursued his Masters in in Science in 1964 and ten years afterward was rewarded with his Doctorate in Physical Education at Springfield College in Massachusetts. While serving an active duty assignment with the Army at the United States Military Academy, he made the All-Tournament Team, First Army Basketball Tournament, in 1969. During two previous seasons he had been an assistant to Bobby Knight and in those campaigns the Cadets had impressed in the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden. Having also coached at Springfield College and Oyster Bay High School on Long Island, he became head basketball coach and Associate Professor of Physical Education at Lock Haven State College in Pennsylvania where he skippered the Bald Eagles to their first winning season in 25 years and their first post-season tournament invitation in a quarter of a century.

DICK McGUIRE

Chief Scout

He never averaged 10 points per game in his eight years as a Knick player but he made the NBA All-Star team five times and court-generaled the club into the league playoff finals in 1950, 1951 and 1952. They don't call him "Dick and Knick" without justification. Dick McGuire, No. 1 draft pick out of St. John's University in 1950, has literally been part of the franchise. For more than 15 years he had enjoyed the distinction of ranking among the league's top ten all-time playmakers with the 4,205 assists he achieved while playing for both the Knicks and the Detroit Pistons. At one time he ranked second only to the fabled Bob Cousy in total assists. He barrelled into the NBA by setting a record for assists in his rookie season when he was credited with 386 in only 68 games. He was Detroit's coach for 3½ seasons in the early Sixties and in 1965 he returned to the Knicks as coach, succeeding Harry Gallatin. In December of 1967 he gave way to Red Holzman and became chief scout and assistant coach. As a talent hunter, he would make 100,000-mile treks across the land to pin merit badges on the top senior college players. Last season he was taken away from the scouting chores to help Willis Reed as an assistant coach. His chief asset re-evaluated, he is now back in the role of Chief Scout. A native New Yorker, Dick began playing basketball as a 16-year-old junior at LaSalle Academy in Manhattan. He then went to St. John's where he led the Redmen to the National Invitation Tournament in 1943 and with it he earned All-America distinction. Few veteran airline pilots have logged as much flying time as the once-fabled "Tricky Dick." If he doesn't already hold that record, he may establish it before this season ends.

MIKE SAUNDERS

Trainer

Mike Saunders becomes, at the age of 26, the fifth trainer to serve the New York Knickerbockers in the club's 34-year history. The first yas Jim Nevins, who remained through the 1949-50 campaign. Then came Don Friederichs, who spent 16 seasons with the club before giving way to Bill Norris. Norris was on the scene for just two seasons when, in the summer of 1976, Danny Whelan signed on. Saunders jammed a wealth of experience into less than four years since he graduated CCNY in January of 1975. Born in New York City and raised in Maspeth, Queens, he played baseball at Newton High School but became a student trainer when he enrolled at CCNY. From the moment he departed City, and prior to resuming his education (Physical thereapy) at New York University, he became heavily involved with athletic teams. He He was the trainer for the New York Cosmos on their European-Carribean tour in the summer of '75; then hooked on as trainer for the United States Olympic soccer team (1976 through 1978) and the U.S. National soccer team (1976-77) as well as serving in the same capacity at John Jay College. Before coming to the Knicks, Mike worked with the Institute of Sports Medicine at Lenox Hill Hospital, conducting pre-season and post-season testing of players with the Knicks, Cosmos and the New York Jets. He is affiliated with the American Physical Therapy Ass'n., the National Athletic Trainers Ass'n; and the American College of Sports Medicine.

NEW YORK KNICKERBOCKERS

Sole remaining National Basketball Association charter member club still operating under the same ownership since the league was organized in 1946, the New York Knickerbockers had the distinction of being one of the two teams which were represented in the first league game.

The club is further distinguished by the fact that it won the National Basketball Association championships in 1970 and 1973.

KNICKS on the AIR

MARV ALBERT

ANDY MUSSER

RICHIE GUERIN

CAL RAMSEY

Another season in which all of the Knick home games will be televised by Cable Television Network and aired by WNEW Radio (1130 AM) will feature the addition of 31 Knick road telecasts through the facilities of WOR-TV (Channel 9). Andy Musser and Cal Ramsey will once again form the video announcing team while Marv Albert and Riche Guerin will be at the microphones for the radio broadcasts. In addition CBS-TV plans to carry seven of the road games on its Regional Network and WNEW will also broadcast two games away from home.
